CASE FILE: OPERATION IRONCLAD — The Anomaly Year

Classification: Restricted | Dataset: house_data1000.csv

THE INTELLIGENCE

Financial forensics flagged a construction boom that defies all market logic. In one particular year, an unusually high volume of properties appeared in the ledger — far beyond normal development rates.

Criminal organizations favor efficiency. They didn't build one property; they built as many as possible in a single year to overwhelm auditors.

INTERCEPTED FIELD NOTES

» "They flooded the records. One year stands out like a spike on a seismograph."

» "Don't look at the prices. Don't look at the addresses. Look at when they were built."

» "The last two digits of that year — that's what they used as their internal reference code."

YOUR OBJECTIVE

Somewhere in the yr_built column, one year appears far more than any other.

The last two digits of that year are your code.

Good luck, Detective.
